Garner Is Slated As Running Mate For Party's Chief, Reports Declare

COMBINATION SEEN AS POWERFUL ONE

Popular Easterner and Well-Liked Westerner
Expected To Form Fine Team.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
CHICAGO, July 1.—As Franklin Delano Roosevelt was swept into the democratic presidential nomination the convention's thoughts turned immediately to the question of a running mate and a spreading rumor had it that John Nance Garner would be that man.

The speaker of the house of representatives started the stampede to the New York governor just before the convention assembled tonight by releasing the Texas and California votes pledged to him and it was believed that this act would bring the Texas support of the powerful Roosevelt organization which the second choice balloting begins.

James Farley, Roosevelt manager in Chicago, and Garner, from Washington, denied that any "trade" had been arranged or any understanding reached but the rumors persisted that the westerner would be named for the vice presidency almost as soon as the voting begins.

Many among the Roosevelt and Garner followers foresaw the combination as a happy one for the party. Roosevelt, as they pointed out, is an easterner with a strong following in eastern urban and rural districts while Garner's background and house record have brought him great popularity in the west and middle west as well as in the south. Roosevelt, too, has southern ties through his Georgia connections.

Even before the demonstration that followed the presidential nomination had died down the thoughts of hundreds of the delegates were turning to the vice presidency and there were indications that many favorite sons would be advanced for this honor but from the excited gossip of the delegates it seemed that Garner had a clear advantage over all other active and passive aspirants.

Garner's announcement early tonight that he was "not seeking" the vice presidency was not regarded as particularly significant since this second place rarely is "sought" actively in the sense that the presidential nomination is.

The men themselves, Roosevelt and Garner, are politically congenial on all the major political issues, including prohibition, and each has gained a reputation as a foe of "the interests." Just after his nomination for the presidency, Governor Roosevelt tried but failed to reach Speaker Garner on the telephone.

The call came in from Albany while the convention was still acclaiming the party's choice, but the speaker's strict rule not to be disturbed was adhered to and the call did not reach him.

He, however, sent the following:

McAdoo Crushes Hope Of Al Smith Again

CHICAGO STADIUM, July 1. (UP)—William Gibbs McAdoo, who stopped Alfred E. Smith in the 1924 convention with the longest deadlock on record, tonight broke a threatening deadlock and again killed whatever hope Smith entertained.

It was the tall, slim former secretary of the treasury who stamped the convention when he mounted the platform to declare that California had come to nominate a president, not to deadlock a convention. He said that the man who had so clear a majority of the United States behind him should be nominated and before he could announce the California 44 for Roosevelt, the victory parade was swirling through the hall with every banner, save two, in line.

LEADERS ACCLAIM ROOSEVELT CHOICE AS PARTY VICTORY

Smith Ominously Silent as Others Laud Nominee of Democrats in Glowing Terms.

CHICAGO, July 1.—(AP)—Comment, jubilant or resigned, and in some cases ominous silence came tonight for democratic leaders at the end of the four-ballot tussle that gave the democratic nomination to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

From the former political friend of the New York governor, but the man who was his most outspoken opponent in the campaign for the nomination—Alfred E. Smith—there came no word. But as he sat in ominous silence, others of those who had sought the nomination were expressing their determination to help boost the democratic ticket toward the victory they hoped for in November.

John J. Raskob, the man who at Smith's request became chairman of the democratic national committee in his drive for the presidency four years ago, also held his tongue.

"I have no comment at all," he said. Another of his opponents in the contest for the nomination, Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, however, had this to say:

"We democrats in Maryland believe in the principles of democracy and we always follow the candidate. We are especially glad that the delegates from Maryland aided in getting the vote placed in the platform. I have been working for 12 years for it and

COUNTY PROVIDES $6,000 FOR NEEDY

Machinery of Fulton county Friday was set in motion to succor destitute families of the unemployed.

An appropriation of $6,000 to provide immediate relief for families whose grocery orders were cut off by curtailment of emergency relief funds was voted by the county commission and two plans for permanent relief were outlined by the commissioners.

Grocery orders for starving persons who have not drawn rations during the last two weeks will be distributed beginning this morning by a staff under the direction of Kendall Weisiger, who has agreed to act as the representative of the county board. The board approved a contract with Southern Grocery Stores, Inc., to supply the food. Friday's appropriation, based on previous relief work, is expected to last more than a week.

Commissioner Walter C. Hendrix, accompanied by S. D. Pruitt, county agricultural agent, this morning will survey the county with a view of putting into effect one plan of permanent relief proposed Friday. This plan calls for the planting of every available acre of county property and rent free private property in produce which will be given to the destitute.

Commissioner Walter C. Hendrix's proposal for the commission to provide work at a bare living wage for many of the unemployed was given serious consideration Friday and will be discussed in more detail at a later meeting. Commissioners Stewart, Hendrix and Longino were appointed as a committee to confer with county officials early next week in an endeavor to work out a co-ordinated plan of city and county relief. This conference probably will be held Tuesday, it was said.

Mr. Weisiger was in conference with the commissioners during most of the day, and the plight of the hungry unemployed was gone into thoroughly, the commissioners expressing sympathy for the unfortunate beings caught in the pinch of the depression.

Democratic Nominee and Next President

Franklin D. Roosevelt

FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT, governor of New York and Georgia's "adopted son," Friday night received the highest honor which the democratic party can bestow upon a member. He was nominated for the presidency of the United States, to make the race against Herbert Clark Hoover, the incumbent.

The nomination of Governor Roosevelt climaxed a long career of service to his party and country. It was a confirmation of the confidence by democracy's representatives gathered in convention, Roosevelt was selected as the candidate who can lead the party to victory and the White House for the first time since the election of Woodrow Wilson.

Governor Roosevelt's first public office was given him by the citizens of Dutchess county, New York, in 1910 when Roosevelt was only 28 years of age. Step by step he progressed, always the fighter for his friends, until he won the governorship of New York in 1928, the same year in which his friend, Alfred E. Smith, lost in his presidential race against Herbert Hoover.

The victory of Governor Roosevelt in 1928 is pointed to by party leaders as typical of his success in all political undertakings. That year for the third time before a national convention he had proposed the name of Smith for the nomination and the latter was selected as the democratic leader.

Governor Roosevelt had no wish to enter politics actively in 1928, but his friendship for Smith led him to agree to campaign for the nominee. He returned to Warm Springs in his adopted state of Georgia, to prepare himself for the arduous summer ahead. Meanwhile the party leaders in his native state were seeking a candidate for governor who would lend strength to the national ticket and though Governor Roosevelt had made it known that he was not seeking the selection, Al Smith insisted. The nominee pleaded with his friend Roosevelt to make the race for governor and help him carry New York state. Roosevelt won his race but Al Smith lost, just as in the national convention Roosevelt won and Smith, whose friendship had soured, lost again.

As governor of New York Franklin Roosevelt discharged with his characteristic ability, aggressiveness and courage, the duties of leader-

Summer White House Will Be Warm Springs

Nestling on a gently rolling hill shaded by tall swaying pines, the "Little White House" at Warm Springs—Franklin D. Roosevelt's other home—awaits the return of the genial and victorious New Yorker who has been chosen to lead his party to political victory and himself to the "Big" White House next fall.

It was in this little frame house facing the hillsides of Meriwether county, warmed by bright sunshine, that Roosevelt fought out his greatest battle—the struggle to regain his health after he had been stricken with infantile paralysis. It was there that he took a new grip on life, facing it with a hope and confidence that, with the gifts of nature which abounded at Warm Springs, finally wrought a miracle and restored him to full vigor.

ROOSEVELT TO FLY WEST TO ADDRESS PARTY CONVENTION

Nominee Asks That Notification Take Place Before Adjournment of Convention.

BY PAUL H. KING.
EXECUTIVE MANSION, ALBANY, N. Y., July 1.—(UP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt received his nomination with satisfaction tonight and announced he will fly to Chicago tomorrow to be officially notified.

Roosevelt, surrounded by cheering members of his immediate family, declared he had sent a statement to the convention, thanking it for its action and asking its permission to receive the notification in Chicago.

The text of the message Governor Roosevelt dispatched to the democratic convention expressing his gratitude for the presidential nomination follows:

"It is with a deep sense of my responsibility to meet your high estimate of my qualifications that I thank you for my selection as your candidate."

"It is customary to hold formal notification ceremonies some weeks after the convention. This involves great expense and in these times I would prefer that this be not followed. Instead, may I ask the convention to remain in session after the selection of the vice presidential candidate tomorrow, that I may appear before you and be notified at that time."

HIT-RUN DEATH CAR BELIEVED LOCATED

Detectives late Friday located a blue roadster believed to have been the one driven by the hit-and-run motorist who late Thursday night struck and killed Fulton Allen O'Kelley, 17, of 672 Gordon place, a Tech High school senior, and injured his companion, Miss Frankie Mae Davis, 15, of 221 Whiteford avenue, N. E.

The car, with blood-spattered fenders, broken windshield, a blood-smeared door and other marks of a collision with a human being, was found in an Avondale garage by Detectives Dick Englebert and Virgil Whitley, of the homicide squad. They were "tipped off" by Otis Ray, of the Ray Pharmacy, at Avondale, who, the detective said, was a member of the party Thursday night and an eyewitness to the accident.

Fred Sheppard, operator of the garage where the small blue roadster was found, told the detectives that a man drove it into his shop at about 8 o'clock, Friday morning and left it for repairs. He stated that the car was driven from the direction of Stone Mountain.

The detectives said that the license plates, 27690-D, were issued for a machine belonging to C. B. Childers Jr., of 1710 DeKalb avenue, N. E., an employee of the Pullman company. Officials of the Pullman company informed them, they said, that Childers came to work Friday morning and left a few minutes later, saying that he was ill. Inquiries at his home revealed that he was not there, the detectives reported.

O'Kelley was a member of a group of young persons attending a "hobo" party at the home of the Davis girl, of 1710 DeKalb avenue, N. E., on the riding in wheelbarrows of girls by their boy escorts. O'Kelley was wheeling Miss Davis in front of the Davis home on Whiteford avenue when a car suddenly swerved out of its course, struck the couple and then sped away with extinguished lights.

Miss Davis was knocked unconscious, though not seriously injured. O'Kelley was instantly killed.

Garner Starts Stampede to New Yorker's Standard by Releasing California and Texas Delegations.

WILL BE NOTIFIED AT CHICAGO TODAY

All Party Factions Join in Blood-Stirring Ovation as Adopted Son of Georgia Is Chosen.

BY EDWARD J. DUFFY.

Associated Press Staff Writer.

CHICAGO STADIUM, July 1.—(AP)—For the presidency, the democratic party tonight overwhelmingly nominated Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the governor of New York.

Flying from Albany, he will come here tomorrow to address the final session of the national convention.

In that session the speaker of the house of representatives in Washington, John N. Garner, of Texas, is to be selected as the vice-presidential nominee for the campaign against the republican Hoover-Curtis between now and the November elections.

Swept to the highest honor of his party by a stampede that carried away all his rivals except Alfred E. Smith, Roosevelt won 945 of the 1148 votes cast.

Smith, who got 190 votes, declined tonight to say whether he would support the party ticket. Close associates expressed doubt that he would.

John J. Raskob, the retiring chairman of the democratic national committee and a fervent Smith partisan, also said "I have no comment at all."

Acceptance Speech.
In his speech tomorrow, Governor Roosevelt will formally accept the nomination, dispensing with the customary formalities which usually have been deferred until weeks after the nomination.

Favorite Sons Swing.
With the force of a real stampede, Roosevelt swept through the convention as the favorite son of the nation, one after another their withdrawal from the race, and turned their votes into the swelling Roosevelt column. He was declared the nominee on the fourth ballot, the first taken tonight.

The convention adjourned at 10:55. The official count gave Roosevelt far more than the two-thirds majority required, the tally being:

Total Votes—1,148 1/2; necessary to choose—766.
Roosevelt—945.
Smith—190 1/2.
Baker—51 1/2.
Ritchie—31 1/2.
White—3.
Cox—1.

Speaker Garner, in all probability, will be nominated tomorrow.

The silver-haired Texan whose decision today to release his Texas and California delegates from the deadlock over selection of Governor Roosevelt for the presidency is the choice of the Roosevelt leaders.

It will be the first time in history that a speaker of the house has been nominated for vice president. There is no doubt here or in the minds of Garner's close associates that this will be done tomorrow.

When Garner released his state delegation just before tonight's session met, that started the stampede that swept across the excited stadium. The plan of the Roosevelt leaders is to meet at 1 o'clock tomorrow to nominate Garner.

The ticket will go to the country on the first out-and-out wet platform of any party in the dozen years that the 18th amendment has been in effect. In line with Roosevelt's personal stand, repeal of prohibition is made the pledge of the party as against the republican platform that promises submission of an alternative.

tive amendment that would retain the federal police power over the states for control of liquor.

In addition, the delegates go for immediate modification of the Volstead act to allow beer and wine. The platform adopted this week also opposes cancellation of the war debts and advocates a "competitive tariff for revenue," a sound currency and a balanced budget.

The document calls for federal aid to the states for unemployment relief when state funds become exhausted, a refinancing of the nation's farm debt at low interest, and control of crop surpluses, and a cut of $1,000,000,000 in the cost of government.

When Chairman Walsh formally pronounced Roosevelt "the nominee of this convention," a last brief spasm of enthusiasm swept the convention floor. But no attempt was made for a long demonstration, and time was given over for former Senator James A. Reed to rally the party stalwarts.

Alfred Emanuel Smith, of New York, 1928 nominee and leader of the bitter "stop-Roosevelt" campaign, decided not to attend the convention after he had been informed of the action just prior to the session.

Georgia cast her 28 votes solid for her adopted son as he was carried to the nomination on a wave of ballots from all sections.

The sweep of the voting was interrupted early in the ballot when William G. McAdoo, leader of the California forces, and an erstwhile "stop-Roosevelt," went to the stand to tell of the Golden State's switch.

A monster Roosevelt demonstration started at once and it was more than a quarter of an hour before the balloting could be resumed, but when it started again Roosevelt was carried to the required two-thirds majority long before the roll was completed.

The giant convention hall fairly roared when the clerk announced definitely that the New Yorker was the nominee and the next president.

The chief engineer of the Roosevelt victory, James A. Farley, appeared on the platform as the organ pealed out "Happy Days Are Here Again." It was a stampee and the fight was over.

James A. Reed, of Missouri, mounted the platform accompanied by Senator Long, of Louisiana, a Roosevelt aide. Reed, however, indicated that his favorite son, former Governor Byrd, was through.

Senator Connally, of Texas, said, "McAdoo beat us to it," when Roosevelt stampee started. While Texas had announced its decision to vote for Roosevelt, California, for whom McAdoo was spokesman, was first on the roll call.

McAdoo had swung the convention to Roosevelt. New power had returned to his hand after a long political exile.

Farley and McAdoo posed endlessly, shaking hands. The demonstration was on almost 15 minutes when the fourth ballot began at 9:25 with Alabama again casting its 24 votes for Roosevelt.

Former Governor Brandon, whose voice has been weakened by illness, approached his New York friend and the hall rang to echo under his announcement.

Arkansas and Arizona stayed with Roosevelt and a tense expectancy gripped the meeting as California was called.

Roosevelt, from Albany, had sent a fighting message to his adherents urging them to crush an undemocratic minority.

Garner, in Washington, refused to comment on his release.

W. G. McAdoo told the convention that California would vote for Roosevelt and the stadium rocked with cheering.

Breaking to Roosevelt.

Signs of a definite break toward the nomination of Roosevelt were multiplying tonight as the tired stalwarts

Demonstration Set Off by McAdoo

of Democracy assembled to end their quarrels.

Action of Speaker John N. Garner in releasing the Texas delegation with its 46 votes was signaling the end of the fight.

California, which also had been all for Garner through three stirring ballots taken in the rising dawn of this morning, also made ready to jump.

The New York governor, in the very shadow of the nomination, lacked but 88 votes to get the 770 two-thirds required to nominate.

The New York governor, in the very shadow of the nomination, lacked but 88 votes to get the 770 two-thirds required to nominate.

The attitude of New York, especially Tammany, was eagerly awaited. A high Tammanyite had said frankly, but privately, in the late afternoon that if Roosevelt were to get within 50 or 60 votes, he expected the wigwag adherents to jump that way quickly away from Alfred E. Smith, the chief Roosevelt rival.

The Roosevelt leaders, jubilant at the turn of affairs, were predicting it would be all over quickly, leaving nothing to be done but select a running mate for the New Yorker.

Talk of Garner for second place persisted, although his friends were not certain whether he was in a psychological position of advantage, for he was credited with large responsibility for the sudden upturn in the fortunes of the leader.

There also was much mention of Ritchie, of Maryland, and Byrd, of Virginia. Some thought that William G. McAdoo, leader of the Garner California delegation, might be willing to listen to friends who wanted him to stand for the vice presidency.

The indicated break of California and Texas was the more important to the Roosevelt men because it came at a time when they were having trouble with some of their own delegates, Mississippi, discussing on the floor of the convention, was seriously threatening a switch to some other candidate when word of the Texas and California developments spread like wildfire among the delegates.

Maine had been talking of dividing its vote on succeeding ballots instead of giving it all to Roosevelt.

North Carolina Roosevelt leaders were threatened with difficulties, and in several other state blocs some of the delegates were growing restless.

The idea that the governor must go over quickly at the beginning of balloting, had been so thoroughly instilled into the Roosevelt followers that many of them had been plainly downcast at the failure to reach a decision on the three ballots taken early today.

News Cheers Leaders.

The news from California and Texas, however, changed everything. Smiles took the place of anxiety on the faces of the weary Roosevelt marshals.

Word was sent to the governor at Albany by telephone that things were looking up, decidedly.

California's strategic position near the top of the alphabetical roll of the states multiplied greatly the influence of her decision.

That consideration had been in the minds of the governor's leaders from the first.

Two fellow Montanans, Senator Wheeler and J. Bruce Kremer, the national committeeman for the state, were on the platform behind Walsh, their eyes glinting in anticipation of the Roosevelt swing they expected to be reached before long.

"Keep moving!" ordered the battery of six-foot policemen who were being buffeted in front of the speaker by the delegates intent on getting somewhere quickly.

He said: "In my great state where registration for democracy has increased this year 143 per cent we believe the interests of the country demand a democratic administration."

A prolonged silence on this point would lead to schisms. We believe that California should therefore take a stand here that will make for harmony.

"When a man comes into this convention with the popular will behind him of almost 700 votes in the time being, for the Rooseveltians, sensing what was to come, rose en masse and cheered him to the echo. They were certain that the big moment had come at last, and the nomination of their man was assured."

From the galleries there were some angry shouts of protest, and a few floor some of the glum-faced anti-Roosevelt men took up the rumbling note of dissent.

Delegates Start Parade.

Texas, which had been bound like California for Speaker Garner, but which had just voted to go over, too, to the leader, replied by standing on their chairs and shouting for Roosevelt, and then starting a parade.

Speedily en masse another group fell into line in genuine stampede fashion, the convention floor became a bedlam.

McAdoo, on the speaker's stand, the first. They felt certain that if the big California bloc could be pitched into the Roosevelt bag on a critical ballot, when there was wavering further down the line, the effect would be so electrifying that no Roosevelt state would any longer consider breaking on that ballot, at least.

On the alphabetical roll only three states—Alabama, Arizona and Arkansas—stood ahead of California and all of them have been for Roosevelt from the beginning.

Somewhat bedraggled after the more than 12-hour session that alternately dragged and stormed through last night and until after 9 a. m. today, numbers of delegates arrived in good time for the so important 8:30 p. m. session.

James A. Farley, Roosevelt manager, refrained from any outright prediction of a nomination on a particular night, but he did not deny any of his deals on the vice presidential position on the ticket.

Anti-Roosevelt people on the floor were so stunned by the news of the Texas and California developments that they couldn't believe it.

"It's all over," said Senator Huey Long, of Louisiana, a Roosevelt ally, the national committee of the party—a Smith choice—said he expected to break away from Roosevelt to come.

The governor's organization had been praying for just such a break at this time, sure that it would do the trick. A marked help to their cause last week was the withdrawal of Senator Lewis, of Illinois, a noticeable change in the psychology on the convention scene coming immediately. And the Rooseveltians obviously were hoping that the passing of Garner meant the turn of a stampee to their banner.

When the crowding began on the floor, one could see two and three other Roosevelt enthusiasts slapping each other's backs, clapping hands and laughing heartily in their glee.

Their understanding was the cause of the opposition would come on the first ballot, even though a complimentary vote for Garner might be given again by California and Texas, which those states are first called. Once the end of the road reached, it was said, several powerful blocs of votes would be altered to support the Roosevelt ticket.

The temper of the audience, regardless of the tedious hours of oratory and the wearying routine that had wearied them so, seemed one of ready cheering and cheering demonstrations.

Meantime, the anti-Roosevelt men were crowded in their penthouse and were overheard to say on their way out that they now believed they could stop Roosevelt. This was prior to the news of the Garner release.

Among the conferees were J. J. Shouse, John W. Davis and James M. Cox.

Senators Tydings, of Maryland, and Bulkley, of Ohio, were among those who were not accepting any such important news as true until getting it more or less officially.

Each of the legislators was caught in the dense crowd of arrivals, there being so much confusion on the floor that at 9 there was little chance to get order sufficient to go on.

Cool looking as usual and somewhat refreshed for having had a chance to rest, the 75-year-old chairman, Senator Walsh, of Montana, first of his order a little after 9—looking patiently out on the pushing and pulling delegates who literally made the aisles look like a bergian counter sale was going on.

Two fellow Montanans, Senator Wheeler and J. Bruce Kremer, the national committeeman for the state, were on the platform behind Walsh, their eyes glinting in anticipation of the Roosevelt swing they expected to be reached before long.

McAdoo, on the speaker's stand, halted in the middle of a sentence, stood smiling at the front of the platform. The standards of more than 30 states were brought to the front of the hall and massed in front of him.

While the celebration went on, with every semblance of a victory march, it became known that at least a large part of Illinois was minded to go over also to the New Yorker and that Indiana which had been hesitating probably would be solid for Roosevelt.

The New York standard after some uncertainty finally joined the parade as the pipe organ struck up "Happy Days Are Here Again." And so the Virginia standard, although this delegation had been pledged to former Governor Byrd.

"God bless you, Mr. McAdoo," shouted a woman delegate as she passed the veteran leader. With him at the front of the platform stood James A. Farley, the Roosevelt manager, and the California delegation, all of them waving and shouting to the passing throng which looked to include about the whole convention.

While the celebration went on, with every semblance of a victory march, it became known that at least a large part of Illinois was minded to go over also to the New Yorker and that Indiana which had been hesitating probably would be solid for Roosevelt.

The New York standard after some uncertainty finally joined the parade as the pipe organ struck up "Happy Days Are Here Again." And so the Virginia standard, although this delegation had been pledged to former Governor Byrd.

The Next Vice President

JOHN NANCE GARNER.

GARNER IS SLATED AS RUNNING MATE

congratulatory telegram to Governor Roosevelt:

"Heartiest congratulations. Your nomination means your election."

Garner had retired at 9:30 p. m., after releasing his delegates to vote for Roosevelt. He was awakened at 11 p. m., and informed that this action had brought Roosevelt's nomination.

Garner does not sit up late except on special occasions, and apparently he did not think tonight was one of them.

After dinner he went to the roof of his hotel for a quiet after-dinner smoke with his feet on the railing, looking down at the massive treasury building and the White House just beyond.

There he was found by newspapermen who sat beside him and talked until his bedtime.

Just a Work Day.

From all outward signs it was just another work-day in more than 30 years of legislative experience to the Texas veteran. Only tonight, Mrs. Garner, his secretary during the day, had returned to their capital office with Representative and Mrs. Jere Cooper, of Tennessee, to listen to reports of the convention.

The nearest speculation as to the cause of the convention proceedings with the reporters who loomed him was to acknowledge reports that the 80 Texas and California delegates had been released.

"Yes, that's right," he said, "let it go at that."

One other time, he pulled out his heavy gold watch and said:

"I guess they are about ready to start balloting now."

The Texas veteran of many years' service, in the house, culminating recently in his elevation to the speaker's chair, would bring to the democratic ticket a picturesque, breezy character, effective on the platform and in a political battle.

Garner's acceptance of the vice presidential nomination, which is foregone, means that he will step from what is usually regarded as a post second in importance to the presidency, to take the more secluded position, with duties consisting mostly of presiding over the senate and dining out. Only seven vice presidents in American history have succeeded to the presidency.

Southwestern Strength.

It draws a southwesterner into the national campaign for the first time, and is expected to bring strength to the ticket in the west and south-west.

Garner, active and vigorous, can bear the brunt of the oratorical work on the hustings this summer and fall.

The speaker is a Texan, born and bred. He grew up in the traditional log cabin surroundings in the pioneer country along the Texas-Oklahoma border, largely schooled himself, entered politics from an apprenticeship as a country editor and lawyer, and battled his way to the second position in the government through in-born political shrewdness and natural qualities of leadership.

His period as speaker has been about the most hectic ever faced by one in that position. Placed into power by a razor-edged democratic majority, he had some disappointments, including the failure of his party membership to follow him on the sales tax. His position was most delicate, as he was in control of the only democratic branch of the government. He was under constant fire.

Renewed efforts of the commission to aid the destitute were put in motion Friday following visits to the courthouse, Wednesday and Thursday, of hunger marchers who pleaded for food. Commissioner Stewart, addressing the group of 200 which gathered Tuesday, urged them to have relatives on the farm to make every effort to return to their homes in the country, and promised free transportation by the country.

Members of the commission recently heard protests against a proposal for one-half increase in the tax rate for charitable relief, but adjourned without taking action, as a majority of the commissioners are known to lack with hearty disfavor any proposal to add to the tax burden of the citizens.

Body Unidentified.

GREENVILLE, Miss., July 1.—(AP) Rising Mississippi river waters at Luna, Ark., today blocked attempts to identify remains of a body thought to be that of Clyde Bailey, 40, of St. Louis and Detroit, suspected member of a gang accused of defrauding Michigan telephone offices.

Fugitive Returned.

NEW YORK, July 1.—(AP)—Kelly Yale Hendrix, under arrest since June 16 as a fugitive from justice from North Carolina, was taken into custody by North Carolina officials today by Magistrate Overton Harris in Tomba court.

Indiana Casts Vote.

"It is now our great happiness to cast our vote with the overwhelming state, Indiana, whose consent I have, and we now cast our vote jointly for the next president of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt," said the mayor.

ship in the Empire State. Thoroughly seasoned in the arena, he met controversial problems passed along from the administration of Governor Smith.

For Roosevelt's service in the state legislature and as assistant secretary of the navy had prepared him for an able administration.

His long career of Governor Roosevelt was interrupted at one period when in 1921 he was stricken with infantile paralysis, a malady which rendered him from the forefront of politics for four years. It was while he was making a tireless and undaunted fight to recover his physical perfection that he learned of the healing powers of Warm Springs and began making periodic visits to Georgia.

The treatment, combined with his own vigor and determination, led to an unbelievable improvement. He began to regain his vigor. Always a powerful man physically, he was able to long last until few traces of the malady are left.

Governor Roosevelt became nationally prominent in 1912 when he led the fight among New York delegates for the nomination of Woodrow Wilson, a move which brought him into renewed conflict with Tammany Hall. As a reward for his fearless fight in the face of Tammany's power he was appointed assistant secretary of the navy, the youngest man ever to hold the office.

In the meantime the friendship between Governor Roosevelt and Alfred Smith had strengthened, a friendship which was perhaps the warmest ever formed in New York politics. Much of Roosevelt's time was devoted to promoting various successes of Smith, the son of James Roosevelt, a distant cousin of President Theodore Roosevelt, and Sarah Delano Roosevelt. He was educated at Groton school and at Harvard University, graduating from the latter in the class of 1904. Three years later he won his degree in law at Columbia University and began the study of the legal profession in New York city.

Governor Roosevelt was married in 1906 to Anna Eleanor Roosevelt, of New York, a member of a distant branch of his own family. Four sons and one daughter were born to them.

Warm Springs, Ga., will in all probability become the summer White House with the president spending several weeks each year at the health resort. He recently erected a colonial bungalow and spent a vacation in his new home several weeks ago.

Governor Roosevelt is well over six feet in height and his shoulders are as powerful as those of a football star. He observes rigorous rules of training and conditioning while at Warm Springs and keeps his weight below 160 pounds. His eyes are blue and deep set in a long face of many Roosevelt characteristics. His smile is infectious and the "crow's feet" surrounding his eyes attest his geniality and sense of humor.

As a speaker and conversationalist, Governor Roosevelt has few superiors in the country. He is usually intense when talking and punctuates his remarks with shakes of his head and with his hands. His expression can turn from smiles to frowns in lightning fashion and a beaming of the brows emphasizes his moods of concentration.

Despite his intense activity in political life Governor Roosevelt found time during recent years to become interested in various movements of educational, welfare and public nature. Only recently he approved a plan to launch a radical back-to-the-farm movement in New York, a move at once idealistic and new, as a member of the board of overseers of Vassar college, of the Woodrow Wilson foundation and other organizations. He holds membership in several fraternal societies and as well as

Government Waste Attacked At Taxpayers' League Meet

Aid for Hungry and Unemployed Urged in Talks by Alston, Arnold and Marx.

Identifying the present crisis as great and more devastating than that which existed in 1917 and 1918, when this country was at war, Robert Alston, Reuben Arnold and Rabbi David Marx Thursday night at the general meeting of the Taxpayers' League, held at the Hotel Ansley roof garden, pleaded with the members to take full cognizance of the conditions as they exist and bend their efforts immediately toward remedying them.

"Now is the time for the awakening. We must arouse ourselves from the lethargy which is entirely responsible for the present deplorable state of affairs," Mr. Alston challenged. "We must work out our own salvation. We, here in Atlanta and Fulton county, must effect our own economies. We cannot look to the national government for aid, for appropriations to local governments by the national government will add another burden on the taxpayers. Our economies must begin here at home and spread to the national government. We must lead the way."

Mr. Arnold attacked wasteful expenditures by our local governments, pointing his attack at what he termed a paternalism form of government now thriving at the expense of the taxpayers. He decried large appropriations for roads and schools, terming them out of proportion to appropriations for services just as important which are now being neglected. He asserted that he could not fathom the reason why the cost of government has doubled and redoubled in recent years when the increase in population has been scant.

Stating that conditions such as exist in Atlanta today where thousands are hungry and jobless breeds revolt, Rabbi David Marx said: "The highest tribute we can pay America is the tribute being paid by those who are unemployed and hungry and yet are law-abiding." He stated that he had been informed that of 25 calls for the Grady hospital ambulance made Thursday, 15 were to remove persons suffering from starvation.

"We must arrange our local governments so we can take care of the jobless, but whether we are able to arrange the business of our governments to our satisfaction or not, we must take care of those who are hungry and are without means of getting food."

Pennsylvania Asks Florida Death Data

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 1.—(AP)—Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Basmah today called upon the secretary of the state of Florida for information concerning the killing in May of Harold Bradley, of Asheville, Pa., in an attempt to escape from a Florida prison camp, where he was serving a three-year sentence for breaking into a gas station.

This action was taken at the request of W. Lloyd Hibbs, district attorney of Cambria county, who said he had vainly tried to obtain information from the prosecuting attorney of Martin county, Florida. Hibbs said he wrote for this information at the request of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Bradley, parents of the slain man.

"It is very evident that this boy was subjected to very cruel and unusual punishment and without any justification," Hibbs said in his letter to Basmah.

MRS. B. C. SHIELDS, ACTRESS, WRITER, DIES IN MISSISSIPPI

NEW ORLEANS, July 1.—(AP)—An old city the remembered her as a favorite actress, a distinguished newspaper woman and a pioneer feminine press agent, today mourned the death of Mrs. Bernice C. Shields. She died yesterday at her home in Waveland, Miss., at the age of 70.

Formerly Miss Bessie Smallwood, of Lexington, Mo., a daughter of the late Emeline Reinhardt, of Philadelphia, and Walter Smallwood, of Missouri, she was a contributor to local newspapers while still almost a child and became city editor of the New Orleans Daily States in 1880 when she was 18.

Turning to the stage, she achieved success with companies of Minnie Maddern Fiske, a close personal friend; Joe Haworth and Sydney Armstrong. Later she laid claim to being the first woman press agent in America when she supervised publicity for Mrs. Fiske and Grace Hawthorne and managed local theaters in whose plays she frequently appeared with her five children.

LT. COL. T. J. DICKSON, WASHINGTON, July 1.—(AP)—Lieutenant Colonel Thomas J. Dickson, retired army chaplain, died today at Walter Reed hospital. He was 65.

As senior chaplain of the First division of the American expeditionary force in France, he was given the silver star citation for conducting the burial service of men killed in action while he was exposed to heavy shell fire.

He was a native of Palmyra, Mo., was graduated in 1896 from the University of Missouri, and served 21 years in the army.

BOYCOTTS URGED AS ANTI-WAR WEAPON

PARIS, July 1.—(AP)—Nicholas Murray Butler told the Associated Press today that the Carnegie endowment for international peace plans to request that the American government call a conference of signatories to the Briand-Kellogg pact with the object of pledging them to advance no economic help of any kind to any nation which violates the pact by resorting to war.

He and his associates in the Carnegie endowment are presenting the idea to leaders of European thought inside and outside the governments, he disclosed.

"Under the pact as it stands," he said, "suppose a nation goes to war. What are the co-signatories going to do? They cannot go to war without themselves violating the pact."

Their attitude is either to encourage the pledge-breaking nation by offering it war materials and supplies, or to discourage it by withholding such assistance.

If there could be an agreement among the signatories the chances of a breach of the pact would be enormously reduced and the problem of disarmament would be greatly simplified, Dr. Butler believes.

He and his associates also are trying to work out a formation of regional economic groups to promote economic restoration of European states.

DAME FASHION SHOWS OFF FOR DEMOCRACY

BY BETTY KERBAUGH.
(Copyright, 1932, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
CHICAGO, July 1.—The dictates of Dame Fashion and the rules of party politics were all mixed together for the women of the national democratic convention.

The matter of what to wear to the sessions is of as great moment to the women as securing a taxi to reach the stadium. And the latter is of prime importance.

Suitcases were packed with new summer clothes before the delegates left home and some of the costumes seen on the floor among the delegates, but particularly in the boxes of honor where outstanding women of the party sit, are worthy of chronicle.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the war president, ruled the convention in point of interest just as her predecessor in the box at the republican convention two weeks ago, Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, held the popular fancy.

Mrs. Wilson was one of the best-dressed women at the convention. Her attire is always ultra-conservative as she sticks to black and the rich dark colors, but it is so severely correct that she stands out among the thousands of women at the national convales.

She had appeared in a different dress for each session, wearing black or brown crepes and always adorned as the neck of her gown with a long, plainly set diamond chain. Her husband gave her for a wedding anniversary gift.

At the first evening session, she was dressed in a black lace gown, black crepe slippers with tiny rhinestone buttons at the front and a large cart wheel hat of fine Milan straw trimmed with a white angel-skin band and tailored bow. Her gown had a jacket which she donned to change a décolleté gown she had worn to dinner to a less formal ensemble.

At the republican convention two weeks ago very few summer frocks were in evidence, but the more advanced season has brought them out here in full blossom. Pinks, yellows, lots of yellow, by the way—blues and white. And most of them are cottons, of the simple sport type with pleated or gored fullness in the skirts, tiny, loose shoulder sleeves and plain neck lines.

There were a few dark linens, so popular last year, but if the feminine delegate or onlooker takes to dark cottons it is usually only a jacket or a stripe across a lighter dress.

Even with the popularity of light summer clothes, the majority is sticking to blue and white, brown and white or black and white silk prints.

Speaking of cottons, there was a lavish display of cotton evening frocks in the hotel corridors and dining rooms. One particularly attractive dress of this type was worn by a delegate from New York. It was a sheer green plaid gingham made with a very full skirt that just missed the floor, a snugly-fitting bodice that crossed in front and tied in an old-fashioned feminine bow in back. The surplus was just wide enough to make a cape for her shoulders.

With this costume her jewelry was of crystals and a clear light green glass that gave the effect of snow and ice.

Mrs. Curtis Dall, daughter of Governor Roosevelt, appeared at one of the sessions in a simple yellow linen with which she wore a soft little linen hat pulled over blonde hair. It was a cool day and over her arm she carried a matching coat of yellow tweed. Her linen slippers were light blue.

Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, wife of the former governor, is always simply dressed. But she enjoys her adornments. The other day she was wearing a subdued black and white print, black and white hat and a display of semi-precious jewels. Two wide bracelets of marcanite and lapis were on left wrist, a diamond wrist watch on the right and she wore drop pearl earrings and a pearl choker necklace.

BIG BONUS PARADE PAST WHITE HOUSE PLANNED FOR 4TH

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(UP)—A parade of 12,000 ragged men past the White House is planned by the bonus expeditionary force for July 4.

National Commander Walter W. Waters, newly confirmed dictator of the World War veterans' occupationary army, announced the parade today, after watching some 5,000 of the veterans do military drill at the Anacostia camp.

The veterans have paraded before since their arrival nearly five weeks ago to seek $2,400,000,000 in payment of World War compensation certificates, but they have been routed carefully away from the White House and have marched down the avenue, toward the capitol, instead of from capitol to White House as is customary.

Waters and his aides will insist, they say, that the Independence Day parade be routed from capitol to White House, so that if President Hoover is in town he will be able to see the thousands of underfed men, jobless, who are camped here.

Macon Woman Honored By Instructors of Blind

Members of the executive committee elected included G. E. Lindeberg, superintendent of the North Carolina State School for Blind, Raleigh, N. C., and Mrs. G. F. Oliphant, of the Georgia Academy for the Blind, Macon, Ga.

SHERIFF, 2 PRISONERS HURT IN BREAK EFFORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 1.—(AP)—A deputy sheriff and two prisoners were injured early today when the prisoners attempted to escape from the parish prison after sawing steel bars from their cell in the "desperate criminal" tie.

Deputy Sheriff William Mahoney, on guard in the tier block, was slugged into unconsciousness by August Jones, held for grand larceny, as he entered Jones' cell, but succeeded in attracting other deputies by cries as he fell.

$45,000,000 PROGRAM ASKED ON POSTOFFICES

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(AP)—A $45,000,000 program for the purchase and construction of postal quarters throughout the country was recommended to the senate today by its special postoffice lease investigating committee after two-year inquiry.

The report, submitted to the senate by Chairman Blaine, recommended that the program include construction of buildings to replace all quarters for which the government now has contracts of more than $8,000 a year and which expire by 1937.

BURNED AT OPEN GRATE, GIRL, 5, IS NEAR DEATH

Alice Scribner, 5-year-old daughter of Mrs. C. A. Scribner, 678 Primrose street, S. E., was critically burned early Friday morning when her clothing caught fire from a grate in which Mrs. Scribner had started a small blaze because of the dampness caused by heavy rains. The child was said to be in grave condition at Grady hospital Friday night.

Mrs. Scribner was severely burned on the hands and arms in extinguishing the clothing of her daughter. She had built the fire, aroused her five children for breakfast, which she was preparing when Alice's clothing caught fire.

Railroads Bombarded With Ticket Buyers for Fourth of July Holidays

BARGAIN FARES DRAW THOUSANDS TO VACATIONLAND

Southern Railway, Seaboard, Georgia, West Point Route and A. B. & C. inaugurate lowest rates in history.

BY VICTOR BARRON.

With vacation season in full swing and the glorious Fourth of July at hand, leading railroads serving Atlanta and this section were virtually bombarded with ticket buyers to all parts of the country this week.

At unprecedented low prices the Southern Railway System, the Seaboard Air Line, the Georgia Railroad, the Atlanta & West Point Route and the Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast provided a huge army of vacationists and Fourth of July merry-makers with transportation, plus de luxe features to the wonderful and picturesque mountainous regions of the magnificent south, to the sun-kissed beaches and the great metropolitan centers of the north and east.

Never before in history have man, woman and child been offered such bargain fares—and the same applies to Pullman fares—such conveniences and safety to the flower-bespangled regions and rolling ocean resorts and towering municipalities to north of the Mason-Dixon line as have been inaugurated this holiday season.

TODAY VS. YESTERDAY.

These ridiculously low fares as quoted for this Independence holiday period would have been laughable a few years ago. In years ago an excursion

SMALL MELON, PEACH, TOBACCO CROPS ARE SEEN

Cy Young, of A. B. & C., Says Farmers Going Back To Rural Sections. Sees Average Cotton Crop; Industrial Sites.

H. S. (Cy) Young, assistant general freight agent in Chicago of the development department of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast Railroad Company, reported Friday a steady increase in the carload movement of Georgia's delicious watermelons, although the crop will be considerably smaller than last season when 20,250,000 were produced, against 32,000,000 in 1930, and 23,430,000 in 1929.

"The peach crop also will be a short one this season," he said. "Thus far, the market has been very healthy and indications are that growers will receive firm prices for their crops this season." Georgia harvested 9,134,000 bushels of peaches last year against 5,500,000 in 1931, and 5,700,000 bushels two years ago.

Mr. Young said that while the tobacco crop looks good, it will be only about 25 per cent of last season's harvest of 30,640,000 pounds, as compared with more than 104,000,000 pounds two years ago, and 80,670,000 three years ago. "The crop can be estimated at from 20,000,000 to 40,000,000 pounds," he said.

He reported that indications point to an average cotton crop, Georgia produced nearly 1,400,000 bales last year, against 1,583,000 two years ago, and 1,545,000 three years ago.

GOING "BACK TO FARMS." "There has been a marked increase in the number of 'going-back-to-the-farm' in Georgia this year," Mr. Young said. "Farmers are 'living more at home' this year than ever before, producing an abundance of food and feed crops."

"There has been a considerable movement of vegetables and truck, especially cabbage, beans and cucumbers from the Tifton territory."

The Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast serves about 700 miles of the richest agricultural and industrial territory in Georgia and Alabama. To the south it traverses the territory of Thomasville, Waycross, Brunswick and other sections with connections to Florida and to the north, Atlanta and Birmingham.

When the A. B. & C. (formerly the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic) was brought into Atlanta in 1908, it purchased considerable industrial property and laid double tracks from Bellwood to Haynes and the Hunter street depot.

The industries located on some of these sites have made considerable progress, Mr. Young said. The road still has considerable property to rent on long-time leases or for sale. Some of the concerns mentioned by Mr. Young which have expanded in this section include the Atlanta Flour & Grain Company, Parades & Rich, McCord-Stewart, wholesale grocer—O. A. Smith, roofing, and Knott & Carmichael, furniture manufacturers.

The A. B. & C., of which B. L. Bugg is president, and J. L. Edwards, vice president, has played an important role in the industrial and agricultural development of Atlanta and Georgia. It was highly instrumental in starting the tobacco industry in Georgia and educating farmers in the value and necessity of diversified crops.

Opportunity is knocking at the doors of every home and business owners roof their buildings at the lowest prices in years with the highest grade material available, according to F. R. McWaters, superintendent of the Georgia Roofing Supply Company, located at 52 Maunham street, N. W.

This company, which owns the Home Insulation Company of Georgia, is the largest distributor of roofing in the southern states, according to Mr. McWaters.

"Business is good with us," Mr. McWaters declared. "Of course one has to get out and dig for it, but the man, or company that rebuilds their energy and offers customers service of the most efficient kind, plus durable material at the right price, has no fear of the future."

NEW RECORDS AHEAD. "We adjusted our business to conform with the readjustment in the business structure, and today are going smoothly and happily ahead with new high records."

There has been a considerable movement of vegetables and truck, especially cabbage, beans and cucumbers from the Tifton territory."

The Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast serves about 700 miles of the richest agricultural and industrial territory in Georgia and Alabama. To the south it traverses the territory of Thomasville, Waycross, Brunswick and other sections with connections to Florida and to the north, Atlanta and Birmingham.

When the A. B. & C. (formerly the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic) was brought into Atlanta in 1908, it purchased considerable industrial property and laid double tracks from Bellwood to Haynes and the Hunter street depot.

The industries located on some of these sites have made considerable progress, Mr. Young said. The road still has considerable property to rent on long-time leases or for sale. Some of the concerns mentioned by Mr. Young which have expanded in this section include the Atlanta Flour & Grain Company, Parades & Rich, McCord-Stewart, wholesale grocer—O. A. Smith, roofing, and Knott & Carmichael, furniture manufacturers.

The A. B. & C., of which B. L. Bugg is president, and J. L. Edwards, vice president, has played an important role in the industrial and agricultural development of Atlanta and Georgia. It was highly instrumental in starting the tobacco industry in Georgia and educating farmers in the value and necessity of diversified crops.

CHEVROLET ENDS 5TH ANNIVERSARY OF STEADY GROWTH

Triples Number Employees and Floor Space—Attributes Success To Satisfied Customers, Plus Good Product To Sell.

Five years of continuous growth.

That is the remarkable record of the East Point Chevrolet Company, which celebrated its fifth anniversary Friday night. Commemorating the occasion, a sport roadster was given away Friday night at the Paramount theater.

Founded July 1, 1927, by D. L. O'Neal, president, and C. T. McGuire, vice president—men of long experience in the automobile business—the company has made uninterrupted progress, notwithstanding the severe worldwide business depression the greater part of the last two years.

The company started with 15 employees on its pay roll and occupied a floor space of 20,000 square feet. Today there are 35 employees and the establishment covers a floor space of approximately 60,000 square feet.

During that period the company has sold approximately 6,700 new and used cars, including trucks.

"We have never shown a loss during the five-year period," Mr. McGuire said. "This, he attributes to proper service and a 'good job' to all customers."

"When you have a good product to sell," Mr. McGuire said, "all you have to do is to satisfy your customers—even if you have to go beyond the limit."

We are on the job every minute to satisfy our staff of salesmen, mechanics and others are men of long experience and efficient in every respect.

Mr. McGuire declared that new and used cars are on the bargain counter—lowest prices in history. The company brought to a close Friday night its fifth year with sales of 46 new cars during the month of June and 80 used cars, representing a sales volume of approximately $250,000.

The company operates a complete service department, including painting, body and fenders, glass replacing and a complete stock of parts.

Commenting on general business conditions, Mr. McGuire declared that the automobile industry is doing more to bring back stable conditions and prosperity than all the rest of industries put together.

ARKWRIGHT NAMED CHEST EXECUTIVE

Announcement of Power Head's Acceptance Is Made by Neely.

The executive chairmanship of the Atlanta Community Chest has been accepted by Preston S. Arkwright, it was announced Friday by Frank H. Neely, president of the organization. Mr. Neely, in announcing the acceptance, expressed his pleasure over it.

Mr. Arkwright's administration of important posts and his extensive executive experience would inspire his co-workers in relief work, Mr. Neely said, as well as assure the beneficiaries of the Chest that an able man was working for them, and that the funds will be wisely and economically handled.

"Especially at a time like this does the Community Chest need the help and guidance of a man of Mr. Arkwright's ability," Mr. Neely said. "Now that he has accepted the executive chairmanship, he will throw himself into the performance of the attendant duties with all the vigor and genius so characteristic of him."

Mr. Arkwright is a past president of the National Electric Light Association and the Edison Illuminating Company. His prominence is nationwide. Locally, he at all times has been at the command of the community and has given much of his time and talents to worthy public interests.

Besides Mr. Arkwright and Mr. Neely, other officers of the Atlanta Community Chest are: Harrison Jones, executive vice president of the Coca-Cola Company, vice president, and Dr. L. R. Chittenden, president of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church, vice president. Mr. Neely is secretary and general manager of Rich's, Inc.

KNIGHT TO SPEAK AT PIEDMONT PARK JULY 4 OBSERVANCE

Dr. W. H. Knight, pastor of the Baptist tabernacle, will be the principal speaker Monday morning at the July 4 celebration to be sponsored at Piedmont Park by all the patriotic organizations in the city. An extensive program, planned by Mrs. W. F. Dykes, will begin at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and is expected to last for an hour.

The Fort McPherson military band will play, and a parade will be staged by the members of the American Legion and other military organizations here. A pledge to the American flag, led by Mrs. Dykes, will be a feature of the program. Members of the Atlanta Boy Scouts will carry the flag and will take part in the program.

The celebration will be held in the park on the terrace near the Piedmont Driving Club. Officers of the patriotic clubs here urged that the public attend. It is the first affair of its kind to be given in the city, and will be held annually hereafter, it was said.

Organizations sponsoring the celebration are: Daughters of the American Revolution, the United Daughters of the Confederacy, Daughters of 1812, the Gold Star Legion, the American Legion, the Boy Scouts, and others.

CHARITY WORKERS TO SELL TAGS TODAY

Working under the direction of a field staff appointed Friday, Atlanta women today will sell small United States flags on the downtown streets of Atlanta in an effort to obtain funds to carry on relief work among needy children of impoverished families. The "Flag Day" sales were arranged by the woman's department of the emergency relief committee, which last winter provided clothing and shoes for thousands of children.

Mrs. J. R. Wakefield, general chairman of the "Flag Day" sale, announced the following subcommittees to direct efforts of a corps of volunteer women in raising money through sale of the flags: Mrs. M. H. Marzesson, of the woman's department; Mrs. L. R. Niles, representing the Firemen's Auxiliary; Mrs. S. L. Belcher, of the Police Auxiliary; Mrs. L. M. Ahern, of the West End Woman's Club; and Mrs. A. J. Canada, Mrs. T. R. Sanders, Mrs. Lowndes Calhoun and Miss Willie Mae Brown.

Leaders said Friday that there is no connection between the tag day today and the charity dance planned for later in the month.

DR. WILLIAMS PLANS TO DISCUSS DRY LAW

The Rev. Felton Williams, pastor of Wesley Memorial Methodist church, will speak Sunday night with "Prohibition a Solution" as the subject of his sermon.

"I will take the position that neither the retention nor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment should, or will, have any influence on the ministry of Christ," announces Dr. Williams. "I am unaware of how many souls have been saved from a drunkard's grave by prohibition laws, however, I have been a witness for 20 years to the saving of thousands of souls through the belief in God and Jesus Christ."

POLICE BAND TO AID NEEDY, UNEMPLOYED

A relief committee, headed by Captain John A. Scharf, to help distribute food and clothing to the needy throughout the city, was appointed by the executive board of the police band Friday night at a meeting at the police station.

The band, of which Captain Scharf is leader, plans to give a series of concerts in every ward of the city, the money raised to be used as a relief fund in that ward. He will be assisted by M. B. Johnson, who is secretary and treasurer of the committee and special investigator. Chief T. D. Sturdivant addressed the band Friday night, and complimented its work. Several hundreds of dollars' worth of food has already been distributed by members of the band.

I. C. C. AUTHORIZES ROAD DISCONTINUANCE

Washington and Lincoln Railroad Abandonment Approved.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission Friday authorized the Washington and Lincoln railroad to abandon the line between Washington and Lincoln, Ga., a distance of 20 miles.

The road has been in receivership more than a year and last December the southern district of Georgia federal court authorized Wickesham to apply for a certificate permitting abandonment of the line.

The railroad has been unable to make operating expenses and fixed charges since 1925.

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 1.—Mrs. M. L. Illges died at her home here early Friday morning. She was the mother of Mrs. John S. Hurt, of Atlanta. Funeral services will be held this morning at 10 o'clock at the Illges home.

KIDNAPING SUSPECT WAIVES EXTRADITION

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 1.—(AP)—Frank Mallette, alias Russell F. Walker, today waived extradition to the northern district of Florida on charges of kidnaping a federal officer and stealing his gun.

Mallette is one of three men arrested here early Wednesday with a small arsenal of powerful motor cars. City police are still investigating Paul McFarland and Lawrence F. Kelly, companions of Mallette. Detroit police have asked that the trio be investigated in connection with a robbery last month of a Detroit citizen in South Carolina.

ANOTHER DIVIDEND FROM CLOSED BANK

CORDELE, Ga., July 1.—(AP)—Howard E. Comer, liquidating agent for the Exchange Bank of Cordele, has mailed out 7 per cent dividend checks to depositors in the closed bank. The new dividend brings total payments to 54 per cent.

About $30,000 has been paid out in dividend checks by this bank and by the American bank within the past 30 days. On June 1 the American bank mailed out checks equaling 10 per cent of the depositors' accounts. The more recent dividend payment by the Exchange bank amounted to about $32,000.

"Distilling the Dill"

Several Tift county farmers are trying out a new crop—dill.

The dill, used in making pickles, and for other purposes, is planted on something more than 100 acres in this vicinity. A distillery has been set up in this section for distilling the dill. The dill is cut on the farms and trucked to the still, where it is distilled by steam. Some of the farmers have the dill weed back to their farms for use as fertilizer. The oil received in the distilling process usually sells around $5 per pound.

PALTRY TOBACCO CROP REPORTED IN THOMAS

THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 1.—A survey of the 1932 Thomas county tobacco crop indicates that the acreage this year is trivial as compared with the plantings of the past six seasons. Dissatisfaction with prices paid here last year discouraged the growers to the extent that many of them have, at least for the present, discontinued planting tobacco entirely.

Acreage in watermelons and cotton is also considerably reduced as compared with 1931. A "live-at-home" farm program has been rather well followed by the local farmers, and all of them report abundant food crops to supply themselves and their live stock, with the so-called "money crops" planted only as extras that will not interfere with the cultivation of the food crops.

Green, of Danville, Ky., who was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Danville for 50 years, one of the longest pastorate in the history of the church.

"Serving the South for 66 Years"

HIGH'S BARGAIN BASEMENT
The Economy Center of Atlanta

Box scores are not things of beauty nor inspirational in quality and yet that one which the Sporting News prints this week is of more than passing interest.

It is dated April 22, 1914, and it is the box of a game played between the Buffalo and Baltimore clubs of the International League.

The pitcher for the Baltimore club is named Ruth, one seen by the box. And one also seen that he walked four, struck out four and gave up but six scattered hits. He came through with a couple of hits himself to help win his game, 6 to 0.

It was the box score of the first league game ever played in by George Herman Ruth, an orphan kid whom Jack Dunn had legally adopted in order to sanction his baseball playing, Ruth being a few months shy of 21 years of age.

St. Mary's protector had harbored the boy. He was a tall, thin young man with a lot of speed on pitching mound. Jack Dunn took him and saw him go well in the spring games. His first real start was against Buffalo.

But the real thrill of the box score lies in the Buffalo side, where at second base one found, 18 years ago, the name McCarthy.

And now, 18 years later, the Yankees are far out in front in the American league race. And the greatest home run hitter the game has ever known is playing in the outfield. He is engaged in a great home run race with Jimmy Fox, of the Athletics. In the twilight of his career he is still a great slugger.

And sitting on the bench, managing the Yankees, is Joe McCarthy. He was at second base for Buffalo the day a tall, skinny, serious-faced kid from an orphanage made his debut in organized baseball.

What if someone had mentioned the chances of it to either of them (then)?

MICKY WALKER "OUT" HERE

That move to have Micky Walker come here for an exhibition at one of the local institutions and a fight in one of the local arenas, has gone a-glimmering, it seems.

Because one of the gentlemen who recently completed a stay as a guest at one of the local institutions was asked to find out what the chances were for the match, he being close to the fight managers and powers. And his word back is that Micky Walker is to meet either Max Schmeling or Jack Sharkey this fall.

I suppose the boys will immediately begin saying that Max Schmeling will take him with ease. And that Jack Sharkey will have a rough evening with Micky. Well, the boys said that Max Schmeling would take Sharkey with ease, but he did not take him at all. And Micky Walker's first fight was a draw with Jack Sharkey, which some of the boys seemed to think he won, none of them ever being willing to give the Sharkey man the best of anything.

Micky Walker might take either Sharkey or Schmeling. He has a better punch than either of them. But landing it on the Sharkey man is another thing. Max Schmeling landed some rights, some of those lethal rights, but they did not do more than black an eye. No punch that hurt landed. On the other hand, Max Schmeling must have been jabbed 200 times and he was wide open for a right on numerous occasions.

It is quite possible that the Walker boy may win from either of them, although I doubt it.

It is interesting to note the swing to Sharkey. After the pop-off by those who saw the fight through either intense Schmeling-colored glasses or speakeasy specs it was discovered that Jack Sharkey was still champion of the world. This may have caused the swing, although I doubt it. And as for those pictures, the reason they don't show any bruises other than Sharkey's black eye and Schmeling's swollen lips and scuffed nose, is that there were no more marks to show.

FINISH FIGHTS WANTED

Our various boxing commissioners won't agree to them, even if state legislatures allowed them, but finish fights are what the game needs. Schmeling would probably have won a finish fight with Sharkey. Unless, of course, the Sharkey man had managed to land early. But at any rate, all these disagreements would be removed.

There would be no such things in the records as the Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby; the Tunney-Dempsey fight at Chicago and Philadelphia (from which, I think, Jack Sharkey learned something for his Schmeling fight), the Sharkey-Walker and the Sharkey-Schmeling contests.

The modern fights to a finish would see few go beyond 15 or 20 rounds. The style of fighting would be changed. The modern fighter does considerably more battling in his three-minute round than did the old-timers. The fights then went on and on and on. It was customary for the customers to go out and drink a few flagons of beer and then come back and watch the stalling for a few more rounds.

The fighters, however, don't care for finish fights. A smart boxer can win one across 15 rounds which he couldn't take in a finish contest.

HONEST BASEBALL

Baseball remains honest. If it were not there would be no such races as the American league in the majors, and the Southern in the minors, offer this summer.

The cash customers will grow fewer and fewer in at least six of the American league parks. And the Southern will see all but Chattanooga and Memphis drop down in attendance. The faint-hearted in Chattanooga are already showing signs of deserting the baseball benches.

The National league will find business good all year. There are but four games between the first place and sixth place clubs. And a sudden spurt would bring any trailing club to the front.

One may judge just how fast the pace is when Pittsburgh's five-day stay at the top set a record for league dominance. The Pirates were toppled off yesterday when the Cardinals took them over the jumps. The Chicago Cubs are back in first place, the surprising Braves of Boston holding third place.

If the rackets ever move in on baseball there will be races every year such as the National offers. It's good business.

ASLEEP IN THE DEEP

Those Crackers come home today for a game with Bert Niehoff's Chattanooga club. The Crackers are one game out of last place and struggling desperately to stay out. The Lookouts are bruised and sore from a severe kicking about at the hands of the Memphis Chick.

The Crackers are quite likely to kick those Lookouts around some more this afternoon. Two days of rest will put the Cracker pitching staff back on its feet. The Crackers are just as interested in staying out of last place as the Lookouts are in regaining the lead.

The Crackers, in need of players here and there, will not get them. A couple of pitchers and an outfielder who can hit will put the club back in the first division.

The Chattanooga baseball fans, incidentally, offer an example of strange specie of human beings known as baseball fans. For years they sat around on wooden benches and cheered punk ball clubs, which never lifted themselves out of the second division. And then came Joe Engel, who gave them a comfortable and elaborate grandstand and good baseball clubs.

The recent slump saw many Chattanooga fans give up the ship and start complaining. They have been fed on cake too often after growing up on a diet of baseball husks.

AN IRISHMAN NEEDS NO HELP

That's a great story they tell about Father Duffy, friend of fighters and soldiers, who passed on a few days ago. He was with the 69th regiment in all its action under fire and he lived and worked with men of the army, the ring and the streets.

The story they tell is that at the second Tunney-Dempsey fight Father Duffy was at the ringside with a friend. When Tunney went down for that much-discussed "long count" the friend plucked at Father Duffy's arm and said, "Pray, Father, pray."

"And," said Father Duffy, telling of it later, "I started to pray, but then I happened to think it would be wrong for an Irishman to ask for help in a fight and so I didn't."

THOSE AUSTRALIAN FOOTBALLERS

Coach W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, has received some advance information regarding the Australian football players who are to appear at Grant field sometime late next fall.

"One of their men holds the record for a 95-yard place kick and several of them drop-kick accurately at 65 yards," he said, after perusing the sample giving the information.

The Australians kick while on the dead run, to make it more intricate. They are expert at handling the ball and at all forms of kicking. Another of their specialties is the lateral pass, something which American teams are using more and more. They very kindly offer to drop off a man here and let him train the Jackets for a while if there is any demand for same. Yale and Michigan once imported soccer players to help teach the lateral pass, but these Australians are more adept.

TAGGING A FEW BASES

Joe Stecher, who wrestles "Blue Sun" Jennings at the baseball park Monday night, has had his legs insured for $50,000 each.

Not until London came along did the ring see a man with the balance which Stecher showed in his matches. His legs were something like gyroscopes.

Hollis Thurston, the Brooklyn pitcher who has won six straight, dresses so neatly the boys all call him "Stumpy."

STEPHENFICHT AND OSCULATOR TO RACE TODAY

Five Horses Named To Start in Latonia's Banner Event.

LATONIA, Ky., July 1.—(AP)—Osculator and Stephenficht meet in the 50th running of the $10,000 added Latonia derby tomorrow with a chance to prove which is best when Osculator has no mud in which to paddle.

Five were named today to start in Latonia's banner event of the week-end meeting, but the race nevertheless was looked upon as between Osculator and Stephenficht alone.

On the record Osculator was favored slightly. The W. R. Coe entry was second in the American derby, gliding in the muddy track that day even though Gusto, an outsider, slipped in first. Disliking conditions.

Mrs. J. H. Whitney's Stephenficht wound up among the leaders in three of the other four divisions, the Belmont and the Withers. The rival pulled in third in the Kentucky derby and second in the Chesapeake stakes, to make matters more even.

Against them will be Dark Hope, owned by J. Y. W. Martin, of New York, a dark horse; R. M. Eastman's Oscar, half brother of the noted Mike Hall, and W. F. Kneibkamp's Delivered, winner of last year's Queen City handicap, Latonia, Burgoon King, Tick On, Boatwain and Gusto were among the nominees but were not entered at closing today.

They will line up at the post at about 4:15 P. M., as follows, with their jockeys and weights, for the mile and a half dash.

Cathop (W. Elliott), 118.
Stephenficht (C. E. Allen), 118.
Delivered (W. Kern), 118.
Dark Hope (J. Smith), 118.
Osculator (R. Jones), 118.

Faireno, Gusto Are Favored Today

NEW YORK, July 1.—(AP)—The two remaining leaders of the three-year-old division still in training, William Woodward's Faireno and Morton L. B. Schwartz's Gusto, have been nominated to fight it out tomorrow for the $10,000 Dwyer stakes at Aqueduct.

The two stakes winners, Faireno the victor in the Belmont and Gusto, winner of the American Derby at Arlington park, probably will have to race to themselves, as only two other horses have been named, Robert Daniels' Brandon Mint and the Brooklyn stable's Monday.

Faireno defeated Gusto in the Belmont at mile and a half, the same distance as the Dwyer, but the latter came fast into the stretch to make four mile.

Gusto is a grandson of Man O'War, being from American Flag, and will have a two-pound advantage in the weights, being assigned 122 pounds, while Faireno will be ridden by the sensational little apprentice jockey, Silvio Couci. Tommy Mallory will have the mount on Faireno.

The evening race will be ridden by the Kentucky Derby, and Monday will have a big pull in the weights, being assigned only 110 pounds.

Prizes were awarded last night to the winners of the other three divisions. Those receiving them were Earl Dunlap, Harrell Glymph, Joe Mendoza and Gene Cox. Glenn Lawson and Red Barrett received honorable mention and will get prizes next week. Chief Jack Redfern was introduced from the ring as one of the fighters set for a fast pace in the three-rounders.

New Trial Ordered In Tunney Case

NEW YORK, July 1.—(AP)—The appellate division of the supreme court today reversed a jury's verdict that Tunney had won the $20,000 prize of Timothy J. Mara against James J. Tunney, retired heavyweight boxing champion, and ordered a new trial of the case.

Only one of five judges on the appellate bench upheld the original decision that Mara had not been aided by Tunney to defeat the champion, where Gene Deane, the matchmaker, had arranged for the fight.

The presiding judge, Edward R. Finch, dissented, claiming the case turned upon the credibility of opposing witnesses.

The prevailing opinion, that Tunney had contracted to pay Mara a percentage of his profits from the fight, was written by Justice John C. McAvoy, with Justices Edgar F. K. Merrell, Francis Martin and James O'Malley concurring.

ASLEEP IN THE DEEP

Those Crackers come home today for a game with Bert Niehoff's Chattanooga club. The Crackers are one game out of last place and struggling desperately to stay out. The Lookouts are bruised and sore from a severe kicking about at the hands of the Memphis Chick.

The Crackers are quite likely to kick those Lookouts around some more this afternoon. Two days of rest will put the Cracker pitching staff back on its feet. The Crackers are just as interested in staying out of last place as the Lookouts are in regaining the lead.

The Crackers, in need of players here and there, will not get them. A couple of pitchers and an outfielder who can hit will put the club back in the first division.

The Chattanooga baseball fans, incidentally, offer an example of strange specie of human beings known as baseball fans. For years they sat around on wooden benches and cheered punk ball clubs, which never lifted themselves out of the second division. And then came Joe Engel, who gave them a comfortable and elaborate grandstand and good baseball clubs.

The recent slump saw many Chattanooga fans give up the ship and start complaining. They have been fed on cake too often after growing up on a diet of baseball husks.

That's a great story they tell about Father Duffy, friend of fighters and soldiers, who passed on a few days ago. He was with the 69th regiment in all its action under fire and he lived and worked with men of the army, the ring and the streets.

The story they tell is that at the second Tunney-Dempsey fight Father Duffy was at the ringside with a friend. When Tunney went down for that much-discussed "long count" the friend plucked at Father Duffy's arm and said, "Pray, Father, pray."

"And," said Father Duffy, telling of it later, "I started to pray, but then I happened to think it would be wrong for an Irishman to ask for help in a fight and so I didn't."

THOSE AUSTRALIAN FOOTBALLERS. Coach W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, has received some advance information regarding the Australian football players who are to appear at Grant field sometime late next fall.

"One of their men holds the record for a 95-yard place kick and several of them drop-kick accurately at 65 yards," he said, after perusing the sample giving the information.

The Australians kick while on the dead run, to make it more intricate. They are expert at handling the ball and at all forms of kicking. Another of their specialties is the lateral pass, something which American teams are using more and more. They very kindly offer to drop off a man here and let him train the Jackets for a while if there is any demand for same. Yale and Michigan once imported soccer players to help teach the lateral pass, but these Australians are more adept.

TAGGING A FEW BASES

Joe Stecher, who wrestles "Blue Sun" Jennings at the baseball park Monday night, has had his legs insured for $50,000 each.

Not until London came along did the ring see a man with the balance which Stecher showed in his matches. His legs were something like gyroscopes.

Hollis Thurston, the Brooklyn pitcher who has won six straight, dresses so neatly the boys all call him "Stumpy."

QUEEN HELEN WINS 5TH TITLE

American Star Defeats Helen Jacobs, 6-3, 6-1 at Wimbledon.

By Frank H. King.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody swept over Helen Jacobs, her fellow Californian, 6-3, 6-1, to win her fifth Wimbledon singles title today.

Mrs. Moody was master throughout over the player ranked second to her in the United States and fourth in the world. The straight-set victory kept intact Mrs. Moody's record of not losing a set in major competition over the last two years.

Semi-final matches also were played in three of the other four divisions, with the United States losing out in one but gaining final brackets in the other two. Ellsworth Vines Jr., the American champion, already is in the finals of men's singles and will play H. W. (Bunny) Austin, of England, for the title tomorrow.

The one American defeat, that of Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn by Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, 6-8, 6-2, 6-4, was more unexpected than were the three American victories.

Borotra regained his old-time form and with Brugnon steadily as rock to his back, the pair overcame Allison and Van Ryn, who were never given the Americans a chance. Allison and Van Ryn had been favorites to retain the title they won in 1929 and 1930.

Elizabeth Ryan, American woman living in London, was a principal in the other two American victories, pairing with Helen Jacobs to defeat Lolette Payot, of Switzerland, and Miss M. A. Thomas, of England, 6-1, 6-2, in women's doubles and winning the mixed doubles with Whitcomb and Mrs. Eileen Bennett Chittinghall, 7-5, 3-6, 6-1.

Sargent, 3 Others Tie for Golf Lead

Son of George Sargent, Hagen, Dudley and Crowder Shoot 142's at Canterbury.

By Paul Mickelson.

CLEVELAND, July 1.—(AP)—Canterbury's big wind blew the western open golf championship into a four-man deadlock today as the 72-hole struggle for fame and little gold reached the halfway mark.

Perched on the crowded wharf, victors over a heavy northwest gale that blew many contenders clear out of the championship picture, were Walter Hagen, of Detroit, the best windjammer of them all; big Ed Dudley, the defending titleholder from Wilmington, Del.; Al Sargent, Toledo professional, who blazed the trail yesterday with a 69, and Cleveland dark horse, Waldo Crowder. All of them had par-breaking totals of 142 for the 36-hole stretch over the Billyow Canterbury Club layout.

Hagen turned in the best performance of the day's battle. Although caught in the big wind and a rainstorm as well, the "Haig" whipped the elements into 142 to add to his par 72 of yesterday for a place in the leaders' crowd.

DUDLEY STREADY. Dudley who captured the crown at Dayton, Ohio, last year, was his same steady self today.

Crowder, a stranger even to Cleveland local tournament play, was the tragedy man of the day and came to the 15th tee five shots under par. To start his crash, he took a five on the four 15th with a short approach. That cost him a stroke. Cracking under the strain, he blew up completely on the 16th, hitting a tree and ending his run at 154.

Sargent's comeback with a 73 surprised the gallery, which expected him to fold up after his brilliant 69. But the son of the veteran George Sargent played a steady game of 36-37-73 to lose ground but stick in the thick of the battle.

OTHER LEADERS. Other leaders at the halfway juncture tonight were: Harry Cooper, of Olin Delta, of California, 71-73-144.
William Schwartz, St. Louis amateur, 73-72-145.
"Light" Hoots, Harry Cooper, of Chicago, who shot a 70 yesterday and then putted himself to a 75 today for 145, and Joe Kirkwood, the trick-shot artist, who had tallies of 73-72-145.

Sixty-seven landed in the qualifying precinct with 155's or better and will fight it out for the title over 36 holes tomorrow. In case of a tie at the end of the regulation distance, the title will be decided in an 18-hole play-off Sunday.

Miss Horton Pays Mrs. Ernest Heads Tribute to Pianists Woman's Auxiliary

The Thursday evening concert at Emory University, a feature of the summer school, given under the direction of Hugh Hodgson, distinguished musician and head of the music department of the summer school, attracted a large audience of music lovers in Glenn Memorial hall.

Mr. Hodgson opened the program, playing with his inimitable style and fine artistic taste, giving a brilliant interpretation of Beethoven's entire "Pathétique Sonata." He rendered Rameau's "Tambourine," Scarlatti's "Pastorale" and "Etude," Wagner's "Cuckoo," examples of the writing of the earlier classicists.

Francis Mitchell played the first movement of the "Waldstein Sonata" with authority, insight and dramatic power. Tom Brumby played two Beethoven numbers, "Eccossaise" and "Turkish March," with brilliant and clarity and a fine command of context and execution. Miss Moseley Horton gave an interpretation of Beethoven's "Funeral March," from the A flat major sonata, portraying the dignified, solemn and heroic resignation to fate.

A novel feature was the performance of the "Thirty Two Variations," by Beethoven, by a group of eight pianists, alternating in turns at the Steinways, to give a finished performance of the gigantic pianistic work. Those playing the variations were Hugh Hodgson, Miss Irene Lettich, Mrs. Edward Van Winkle Jr., Miss Moseley Horton, Wagner Alexander, Francis Mitchell, Mike MacDowell and Tom Brumby.

A fitting climax was the brilliant performance of the first movement of the "Concerto in C minor," Beethoven, given by Mr. Hodgson, with Miss Lettich adequately furnishing the orchestral score at the second piano. In this work Mr. Hodgson reached pianistic heights that literally carried his audience away in rapturous ecstasies, and in the climactic finale, when by Moscheles there could be no mistaking Mr. Hodgson's skill as a technician nor his finesse as a musician of a rare order.

Three Minute Relief From Periodical Pains

It is so unnecessary to suffer month after month from inorganic pains because "B. C." will bring soothing relief in three minutes. "B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most relief-giving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, used by many physicians, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug could do in 30 or 40 minutes. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of common colds, headaches and neuralgia, muscular aches and pains, reducing fever, and for quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit-forming drugs. Get "B. C." in 10c and 25c packages, wherever drugs are sold. —(adv.)

An American Tragedy

By carefully snapping out the electric lights, when he stepped out of the room for a few minutes, he saved one-sixteenth of a cent—but came back and walked right smack into a doctor's bill. Plenty of light is one pleasure so amazingly cheap that all of us still can afford the comfort, convenience and safety that it brings.

two children in a part-pay orphan's asylum on Staten Island.

Tony had reason to remember her first "client." The prospect of a tight-lipped woman of indefinite age, with heavily mascaraed eyes and a diamond bracelet two inches wide. She wanted an evening gown. Tony lost the sale.

"You should have talked up the pink lame," Brooks. "Simone was sharp, frankly displeased. 'Confound it, you see she wanted the pink lame?'"

"But it—it wasn't right. She was thick through the hips and the lines of the pink lame accentuated her thickness. The color was bad, too. It made her look old—as old as she is—showing her back with dry crinkled skin to the waist. The mulberry was lovely. Feminine and sweet."

Mme. Simone flushed with anger, with impatience. She snapped: "Never mind about that, Brooks. We're not in this business to cultivate taste. We're in it to sell clothes. Give 'em what they want. If we don't give it to 'em—our competitors will. Another loss like that and I'll have to let you out."

In silence Tony gathered up the offending pink lame and the mulberry lace and handed them to her helper.

She was thinking that the upward path of salesmanship was far from inviting one. Lisa, Bob, blatant lies frothed over with gushing adjectives and sugary persuasions. Truth was so much easier and so much more becoming. Heigho! She would try. One must live.

Less than a month later the sales path took a sharp turn to the left, then ceased altogether. A lumpy woman, with imperious eyes, an emerald coat being carried to the "furs" by a Simone helper. She asked Tony to slip it on.

"You're about my figure," the lumpy woman concluded, studying Tony's slim length with appraising eyes. "Yes, just about it. A bit taller, perhaps."

Tony judged the "about" meant a difference of at least 40 pounds added to the coat. She slipped on the coat. It sheathed her like a calyx, clung lovingly to the delicate curves of her firm young body. Above the soft white collar dark brooded in the undulations of her hair. Her dark eyes flashed the torch which only those who love beauty for itself and not for its effect may carry.

"Exquisite!" The lumpy woman was enamored. "Quite the loveliest thing I've seen. I'll try it."

Tony helped the woman into the coat. She knew at once it would not do. Bulky at the shoulders. That was because it spanned at the hips. It was no longer a calyx. It was a white bag. The woman was preening, fussing with the collar, wringing her shoulders. "It doesn't look—exactly—there's something—maybe it's the sleeves."

"If you'll allow me—" Tony took the two edges of the coat, lifted it slightly to release the tension. "It's just a bit snug at the hips. That could be adjusted easily. How was she to know that slenderness, wooed at the cost of agonizing days of starvation and hours of rubbing and drubbing at the hands of reducing experts, was this woman's fixation? Or that Simone was listening, avidly, ear pressed close to the curtains, in the next fitting room?

"Snug! How perfectly ridiculous. The customer's tone was that of one grossly offended. 'The thing is a perfect fright! It's yards too big for me. I'm a perfect sixteen. You must be an eighteen. Or twenty. You models seem to think you are the only persons in the world with decent figures.' 'I'm not a model, madame, I'm a

Culbertson on Contract

Bidding for a Sacrifice.
BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Defense bidding is one of the most interesting phases of Contract. The principle governing it is that you should elect to take a penalty, provided the penalty you incur is less than you would suffer if you permitted your opponents to play it at their contract.

A hand, played in a Duplicate Bridge tournament in which a number of the strongest players in New York city participated, afforded opportunities for unusual defensive tactics by the North and South players against their vulnerable opponents. The hand was:

East and West vulnerable.

♣ Q 10 7 4

♠ A K 8

♦ J 10 7 4

♠ A K 8

♦ J 10 7 4
♣ J 8

At most tables this hand was played by South at a contract of six spades, doubled, and in one case, redoubled, because the South player was convinced that West, who had done considerable bidding, had nothing whatever in his hand. Surely these would have been super-psychic tactics, indeed, for a vulnerable player to use against non-vulnerable opponents.

The hand presented an interesting problem in correct bidding. East was just short of the strength needed for an Opening bid. His hand, however, was almost a perfect two-suiter, and as it contained no Aces, it was practically certain that some player around the table—either one of his opponents or his partner—would open the bidding, and East would then have an opportunity to disclose the picture of his hand. South, of course, had a strong hand and also a two-suiter.

Most Souths opened the bidding with one club. The choice between a club and a spade was fairly close, but a spade was probably more correct. West, in all cases, doubled, holding 3-1-2 honor-tricks and being able to support either of the two suits. North passed, and East must perform a jump response to the Takeout Double. Thus, over one club, East's proper response was two hearts. Probably the only reason why three hearts should not have been bid was that East wished an opportunity to disclose the two-suited nature of his hand before the bidding went too high. South, not vulnerable, would then have bid two spades, and West, who held 5-1-2 playing-tricks in support of East's jump response to the double, should have bid three hearts. This course of bidding, however, appeared at most tables, and North defended with three spades, and East bid four diamonds. South again defended with four spades, and West, knowing that his hand fit almost perfectly with that of his partner, bid five hearts. North then passed, and East, lacking control of the first round of any suit except spades, also passed.

South, defensively, now bid five spades. The crux of the defensive situation had now been reached. Most players with the West hand, on the strong bidding, now bid six hearts. South was now faced with a difficult defensive problem. Should he count on his club Ace to take a trick and defeat the Slam, or should he defend by a bid of six spades? My opinion is that he should have passed the six heart bid. East and West in all their bidding had not shown control of the club suit. It was almost certain that they did control the first round of the spade suit. The diamond Ace was marked winner, and thus apparently East and West's Slam contract should have been defeated. The bid of five spades, carrying with it only a penalty of 100 points, if doubled, was a splendid defensive measure. The bid of six spades was a failure to take account of all the inferences that could be drawn from correct bidding.

TODAY'S POINTER.
A knowledge of the defensive symmetry, the underlying principle of which is that unusual distribution of one hand will find like unusual distribution in another, is an invaluable guide to a player in determining whether to accept a penalty by overbidding or to play for the defeat of the opposing player.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Covering professional bears in the stock market today resulted in strength for pivotal issues, the average price of 10 representative industrial stocks

Other explanations for the betwixt underdone included the substantial improvement which occurred in the London securities markets because of the English war-loan conversion plan. Perhaps the chief reason for the drop in prices was that a number of more important of the professional traders decided there was too much risk attending outstanding commitments over the three-day holiday. It was better to take profit and to take chances.

Despite the generally strong underdone a number of new low records were established, including National Aircraft, American National Safeway Stores and S. S. Kresge.

Significance was placed on the material of strength in the bond market indicating the bond pool has become

INSULL CONCERN IS NAMED IN SUIT

Bankruptcy Petition Filed Against National Elec- tric Power & Light Co.

NEW YORK, July 1.—(P)—Charging that the National Electric Power & Light Company, a $8,000,000 insull concern, has transferred $3,000,000 to various creditors while it was insolvent, three small creditors with claims aggregating $4,800 today filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the company in federal district court.

National Electric, a subsidiary of the Middle West Utilities Company and one of the most important links in the insull chain, yesterday was placed in receivership.

The petitioners, George W. Boland, Louis D. Merry and Ellen D. Choleron, charge that their action against the company should have taken precedence over the $3,000,000 claimed by creditors, already paid.

Following the appointment of receivers for the company and its subsidiary holding company, the National Public Service Corporation, the financial district resumed discussion of the insull system will be forced to relinquish control of some of its operating properties as a means of extricating itself from a difficult position.

This same subject was brought up just before the Middle West Utilities Company went into receivership. At the time there was a $1,750,000 sale of the Jersey Central Power & Light Company to the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey and it is believed similar transactions soon will follow.

AMERICAN COTTON CO-OP RE-ELECTS OFFICERS

NEW ORLEANS, July 1.—(P)—The board of directors and stockholders of the American Cotton Co-operative Association closed their two-day session here today with the re-election of all officers for the coming year.

Officers elected are U. B. Blalock, Raleigh, N. C., president; C. O. Moser, vice president and secretary; H. G. Safford, vice president in charge of sales; D. G. Hill, comptroller; P. L. Sarant, treasurer; Jeff Wood, assistant treasurer; Rae Epstein, assistant secretary, and J. R. Barachar, assistant to vice president. With the exception of Blalock, all are of New Orleans.

Mechanics, announced Friday that an all-time record for establishment of new lodges has been set since his induction last August. A total of 23 already have been installed throughout the state, and another will be added tonight when Clayton will get one.

City employees Friday were without funds, as the municipality for the third time this year failed to meet its obligations. Lack of sufficient funds prevented circulation of about $325,000 due the 8,000 employees and there is every probability that the obligation will not be met before July 15.

City council will not work Monday, it was indicated Friday. Despite the fact that Monday is the fourth of July and the city hall will be closed, a charter provision makes it mandatory that council meet. Indications Friday were that the council will adjourn or that there will not be a quorum. If an adjournment is taken, the council will meet Wednesday or Thursday afternoon.

H. M. (Uncle Henry) Wood, clerk of the Fulton county commission, Friday announced the loss of a $300 salary warrant which disappeared en route to the bank for collection. Mr. Wood requests that any person finding the check return it to him. He notified the banks to stop payment of the check.

J. W. Turnipseed has been awarded the contract for an annex to Parkersburg school, and Gates Brothers, of College Park, the contract for an annex to the Fulton school, by the Fulton county board of education. Payment will be made from bond funds.

Harry Verner, 18, whose "Verner Special" racing car, "No. 13," is credited with killing Patrolman J. M. B. Goode Friday, was indicted by the grand jury for involuntary manslaughter. Goode was fatally injured Tuesday when struck by a car while he was driving on a street car. Verner is accused in the true bill of driving at a speed greater than the lawful rate of 30 miles an hour.

J. N. Trotter Friday was indicted by the grand jury for assault with reckless disregard for human life, driving past a street car on Howell street on October 28, 1931, ran into Earl Copus as Copus got off the street car.

S. D. Truitt, member of the state board of education, Friday officially took charge of the work of Fulton county agricultural agent, succeeding Harry L.
